

TEYE MINERALS™

KIEHL'S

For over 150 years, Kiehl's product selection has grown exponentially as the Brooklyn, New York-born apothecary has established itself as a global leader in natural body care. Infused with herbal, medicinal and pharmaceutical ingredients, Kiehl's has a solution for any skin problem. From a shaving line for men and a whole product base for newborn babies, throw in dermatological anti-aging formulas and intensive acne care concoctions and there you have it: basically, there's something for everyone. Picky about adding some scents to your bath? Soak muscles in mineral foam, relax with soothing lavender or indulge in some French rosewater. And there's more... TEYE COSMETICS

Calgary-born spa, The Oasis Wellness Centre recently established itself in Toronto. Along with massages and hot body scrubs, Oasis brought along its mineral make-up collection, Teye Minerals. Nature enhanced with science, Teye's products are made from micronized minerals and less commonly used agents in aesthetics like Algae, Green tea, Echinacea, Macadamia oil and more. Talc-based and chemical-free, Teye products are also scent and irritant-free so they're perfect for any type of skin. In fact, Teye make-up is actually good for your skin, boasting anti-inflammatory, anti-bacterial, UV and healing properties.

CRABTREE & EVELYN

Designer and international model India Hicks has creatively partnered with Crabtree & Evelyn to launch 'Island Living Body and Home Collections.' Inspired by Hicks' vision of a life on her very own Caribbean island, highlights of natural island wisdom, island tree, flowers and classic West Indian style accent both the contents and packaging of 'Island Living'. Eau de toilettes like the 'Spider Lily' consist of the spider lily flower (which grows by the sea-edge), night-blooming jasmine, orange blossoms, sea spray, indigenous red berries and island wildflowers. Triple-milled soaps made of avocado butter, grape seed, sweet almond and coconut oils can be used alongside shower gel made from seaweed extract, hibiscus and aloe leaf juice. Granted the Royal Warrant by her godfather, HRH the Prince of Wales, India Hicks' Island Living, while fit for royalty is also fit for an earthy goddess. RUTH'S HEMP PRODUCTS:

From granola bars to burgers, this line of organic goodies is GMO-free and contains no hydrogenated fats, trans-fat acids, refined sugars, artificial preservatives, sulphates or fillers. But they still taste yummy! Conceived in 1999 by a Toronto-based one woman show, Ruth Shamai created an assortment of hemp seed based food selections – they won't get you red-eyed or buzz-stricken, but they will offer more protein per serving than fish, meat, poultry, tofu or eggs. All her products are chock full of essential fatty acids like Omega 3 and 6 that can help you live a lot longer. Or so we hope.

WHOLE FOODS

Launched over 20 years ago as a small retail grocer in Austin, Texas, the chain has now mushroomed into a sought out gastronomic destination for health-nuts, with over 192 stores in North America and the U.K. The idea was to create a home for organic offerings and artisan fare – including boxed and canned goods, natural beverages, already-made food and high quality, pesticide-free produce. Most importantly, the company maintains a philosophy that promotes positive environmental awareness and helps to educate the community through workshops and special events. Canadian locations include Vancouver, Toronto, and Oakville.
